

I Am Going

Apple Picking

Endorsed by:

I am going to pick apples in the Hudson Valley.

I will go to an orchard to pick the apples. An orchard is a farm with lots of apple trees.

The trees are planted in rows and we will walk up and down the rows finding the best apples to pick!

There are many different types of apples . . .

green apples, red apples, and yellow apples.

We will find the row that has the apples we like and start picking!

I will try to only pick apples from the tree branches.

The apples that are already on the ground
might be bruised or old.

The best apples are on the branches.

I will reach up into the tree and pick the apples that look the best.

When I pick an apple out of the tree,
I will look at it to make sure there are no holes or bruises on the apple.

If it looks good, I will put it into the bag or basket I brought to collect the apples I will keep.

When we are done, we will pay for our apples at the farm stand and they will put them in a bag for us to take home.

The farm may have other things to buy at the stand, too! Some farms have apple cider donuts and apple cider.

When we have paid for the apples, we will bring them home and wash them.

I had a great time picking apples at the orchard!
